By bringing together and connecting the most forward-thinking participants in financial services, Innovate Finance is helping create a global financial services sector that is more transparent, more sustainable and more inclusive.
Global FinTech Investment Falls

Global investment in FinTech decreased 28% in 2019 to $35.7 billion, dragged down by a sharp fall in funding to Chinese FinTechs. The relative value of the top five deals in 2019 has decreased to its lowest level in the past five years at 11% of the total investment, versus 40% in 2018.

Nearly all global regions saw an increase in investment aside from Asia, which decreased 73% from $28.8 billion to $7.8 billion due to a significant drop in large deals in China. Investment increased 25% in North America to $17.3 billion, and 49% in Europe to $8.5 billion. North America received nearly half (49%) and Europe a quarter (24%) of total global investment in 2019.

FinTech Startups Continue to Raise Big Rounds

2019 continued the trend of an ever increasing total number of big fundraises. Globally, there were 86 mega deals in 2019 (deals exceeding $100m in value), an increase of 23% from 70 mega deals in 2018. Over half of all mega deals occurred in North America (56%) and a fifth in Europe (20%). The largest three deals globally were Paytm ($1.7 bn, India), Greensill Capital ($800m, UK), Chime ($500m, USA), SoFi ($500m, USA) and Mission Lane ($500m, USA). Corporate participation in global FinTech investment continues to increase, rising to 20% in 2019 from 18% of all deals in 2018.

UK FinTech Accelerates to New Record

The United Kingdom ranked second globally (and number one in Europe) with $4.9 bn of investment (up 38% on 2018) across 359 deals (down 9%).

The top five deals in Europe were Greensill Capital ($800m, UK), N26 ($470m, Germany), Klarna ($460m, Sweden), WeFox ($235m, Germany) and Checkout.com ($230m, UK). The UK saw significant fundraises in 2019, accounting for 7 of the 10 largest deals in Europe.

Looking more closely at trends within the UK, investment in female-led businesses stands at only 10% of all investment and 11% of deals. London remains the incumbent centre of investment receiving 88% of investment and 78% of all deals.
Global FinTech investment falls to $35.7 billion across 2,827 deals

Global investment in FinTech has decreased 28% in 2019 to $35.7 billion, dragged down by a sharp fall in funding to Chinese FinTechs. The relative value of the top five deals in 2019 has decreased to its lowest level in the past five years at 11% of the total investment, versus 40% in 2018. The number of deals has decreased 17% to 2,827. Corporate investors were active in a fifth of all deals in 2019 continuing a steady increase from 13% in 2015.
Two Year Quarterly Analysis

Ant Financial’s $14 billion record fundraise in Q2 2018 is clearly reflected in a quarterly analysis. Aside from Q2, investment levels remain very close across most quarters between 2018 and 2019. Deal volume by quarter is consistently lower across 2019.
Late stage deals dominate the majority of all funding into global FinTech. Late Stage VC and Growth combined represented 65% of all investment in 2019, down from 71% in 2018.

Investment in female-led businesses

Female led FinTech businesses received only 10% of all investment and 11% of deals in 2019.

We are a world-leading FinTech hub, and as the figures reveal, the epicentre of FinTech in Europe – all of which is a testament to the fact that the UK is a leading destination to start and scale a FinTech business.

The missing piece of the puzzle is ensuring we are also boosting female-led companies, and providing the capital to this area of the market. There’s no excuse for investors to be overlooking female founders, and as a collective we must do more to better to ensure long-term success and growth of the sector.

– Charlotte Crosswell, CEO, Innovate Finance

This year the dataset for investment in female led businesses has been widened to include both CEOs and founders as well as additional sources of investment. The above numbers are not comparable with those included in the Innovate Finance 2018 FinTech Investment Landscape Report.

Appendix

The global data was compiled and summarised by Innovate Finance using PitchBook data. FinTech investment includes accelerator, incubator, angel, seed, early and later stages VC, and PE growth/expansion funding. The data has not been reviewed or approved by PitchBook.

1. Other investment includes grant based funding and corporate (where no other investor type participated).

2. Paytm ($1,660m, India) reflects data from PitchBook. Other news sources may indicate varying deal sizes.

3. WeFox ($235m, Germany) reflects data from PitchBook, reflecting two funding raisies (initial and extension) in its Series B.

4. Our 2019 report includes certain changes in the methodology and dataset from prior years. As a result, please note how sections of this report may not be exact comparisons with prior reports. In particular, the UK data on female led businesses was widened to include CEOs and other sources of investment as well as data on national trends was widened to include other sources of investment.
